Specification

The examiner has not checked the specification to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors (grammatical, typographical and idiomatic). Cooperation of the applicant(s) is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant(s) may become aware of in the specification, in the claims and in any future amendment(s) that applicant(s) may file.

Applicant(s) is also requested to complete the status of any copending applications referred to in the specification by their Attorney Docket Number or Application Serial Number, if any.

The status of the parent application(s) and/or any other application(s) cross-referenced to this application, if any, should be updated in a timely manner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.

4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent No. 5,681,384 to Liskowitz et al., U.S. Patent No. 4,268,316 to Wills, Jr., U.S. Patent No. 5,772,752 or Liskowitz et al., U.S. Patent No. 5,766,338 to Weber, U.S. Patent No. 5,536,310 to Brook et al. or U.S. Patent No. 5,928,420 to Oates et al.

The instantly claimed invention recites a composition comprising fly ash or pozzolan, Portland cement and lime.

Each of the cited references is relied upon for teaching compositions comprising hydraulic cements such as Portland in combination with fly ash. The examiner considers that these compositions read on the instantly claimed composition because fly ash is known to include free lime in amounts that can overlap those claimed herein. Moreover, Liskowitz '384 teaches the additional treatment of fly ash with additional CaO prior to incorporation into cement. See particularly columns 3 and 4 of Wills, Jr., column

Art Unit: 1755

1 of Brook et al., column 3 of Liskowitz et al. '384, columns 21 and 22 of Weber, columns 2 and 3 of Liskowitz et al. '752 and column 3 of Oates et al.

Each of the references differ from the instant claims in their failure to teach the exact proportions as recited in the instant claims.

However, one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made would have considered the invention to have been obvious because the the compositional proportions taught by the references overlap the instantly claimed proportions and therefore are considered to establish a prima facie case of obviousness. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to select any portion of the disclosed ranges including the instantly claimed ranges from those disclosed in the prior art reference, particularly in view of the fact that:

The normal desire of scientists or artisans to improve upon what is already known provides the motivation to determine where in a disclosed set of percentage ranges is the optimum combination of percentages", In re Peterson, 65 USPQ2d 1379 (CAFC 2003).

Any minor differences in the limitations of the dependent claims have been considered. This statement is meant to include limitations such as the type of fly ash or pozzolan selected for the claimed composition. The skilled artisan in this field of technology attempts to select appropriate waste materials and pozzolonic materials to maximize strength and performance and minimize cost. The selections of the particular components to carry out this engineering function are well within the skill of the artisan because the cement art is a very predictable art and components are added for known reasons and perform expected functions. There is no evidence on this record of anything unexpected associated with known pozzolans and fly ashes employed by applicants in this invention.

Furthermore, any such differences are deemed to be result-effective variables that one of ordinary skill in the art would be expected to manipulate to advantage. Additionally, such limitations can be considered to have been simply known as conventional to the artisan practicing in the art at the time the invention was made ... and/or were common practices which were so well known in the art that they would have been taken for granted. MPEP 706.02(a).

If applicants believe that one or more limitations are critical to the invention, then applicants should amend the claims to reflect such critical limitations as well as indicate where in the specification such critical limitations were discussed and demonstrated.

The limitations of all claims have been considered and are deemed to be within the purview of the prior art.

Conclusion

Applicants are advised that any evidence to be provided under 37 CFR 1.131 or 1.132 and any amendments to the claims and specification should be submitted prior to final rejection to be considered timely. It is anticipated that the next office action will be a final rejection.
